White Star Capital is a global technology investment platform partnering with exceptional entrepreneurs who are building the iconic companies of tomorrow. With offices in London, Paris, New York, Toronto, Montreal, Tokyo and Hong Kong, our presence, perspective and deep operational expertise enables us to partner with founders to help them scale globally from Series A onwards. Find out more on our website.

At WSC, we believe an important aspect of our role in the ecosystem is nurturing young talent to help them build experience in the world of start-ups. One of the ways we’ve done this over the years is through our analyst internship program.

As an Analyst Intern at WSC you will work with the Investment Team on sourcing, thought leadership around specific focus areas, sectors and geographies, due diligence, and investment decision making for our early-stage focused fund. You will also support the team more broadly on growth initiatives.

Our London office is currently looking to hire a talented individual for this paid 6 month role. Our international perspective is key to what we do, and so we are focused on finding the right individual who is a self starter and comfortable with working remotely. After the internship, we will also do our best to support you with your future endeavours in the ecosystem.

If you’re interested in start-ups, eager to learn and excited about being part of a global family, then please apply here.
Candidates should be/have the following:

- Currently studying for an undergraduate degree
- A high level of intellectual curiosity and self-starter mindset
- A demonstrated passion in start-ups, venture capital or entrepreneurship
- Collaborative and communicative

Additional skills that would be welcomed, but not required would be:

- Foreign language skills and/or international experience
